

Institute of Economic Studies and Centre for Strategic Partnerships, Charles University

Invite you for two lectures that will deliver Dr Romola Davenport of Cambridge Group for the History of Population and Social Structure at the Institute of Economic Studies.

Lecture 1. Thursday 15th April, 11:00 CET

'Plagues and peoples revisited: epidemic disease and urbanisation in early modern England'.

Lecture 2. Thursday 22nd April, 11:00 CET

'Urbanisation and the decline of infectious diseases in England, c.1750 – 1900'.

Lectures are part of Cambridge Lectures in Economic History (JEB143) focused on the Economic History of Pandemics this year. No doubt, lectures will be an unmissable event for anyone who wants to understand how history influences present and future economic development.
